

Edithburgh Jetty Snorkel

Edithburgh Jetty, one of Australia's top dive sites, offers a captivating snorkelling experience. While the deeper waters are best suited for those comfortable with duck diving, the vibrant marine life around the pylons is fantastic for snorkellers.

LOCATION

Edithburgh, Yorke Peninsula, South Australia

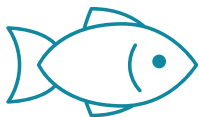

DEPTH

2-8 Meters

TEMP

17-22°

FEATURE

DIFFICULTY

Easy

Easy access from the jetty but depth might put new snorkellers off

Google Map data © 2024 Imagery © Airbus, Maxar Technologies

GETTING THERE

Edithburgh is on the east coast of Yorke Peninsula about 2 hours 45 minutes from Adelaide. Easiest way to get there is self drive.

Easy access from stairs on the jetty. There is parking right next to the jetty too.

LOOK FOR

- Leafy Sea Dragon
- Octopus
- Fish
- Sea stars
- Nudibranch
- Cuttlefish

BEST TIME TO SNORKEL

Even in summer you will want a light wetsuit to stay warm. In winter, conditions can be lovely but the water will be cold - 15 or 16 degrees.

Best snorkelling here is in light winds or when there is a westerly or northerly breeze. For snorkellers, low tide is better as you are closer to the bottom.

Snorkelling 45mins either side of low tide is a good option. Ideally swell be less than 1m.